FIRST PEOPLES BUFFALO JUMP STATE PARK

Prehistoric Native Americans hunted bison by driving them over the cliffs. Theirs was a spectacular – some say highly sophisticated – practice, one that captures the mind and imagination of historian and tourist alike. First Peoples Buffalo Jump may be one of the largest buffalo jump sites in the world. For thousands of years people have gathered here to celebrate and to feast.

Please be careful of the natural hazards in the park such as rock cliffs, rattlesnakes and cactus. Stay on established trails for your safety, and please keep pets on leash.

First Peoples Buffalo Jump State Park Offers:

- Visitor center and “what the buffalo became” exhibit
- Hiking trail... 3 miles
- Prairie dog towns
- Public restrooms (Handicap Accessable)
- Picnicking
- Panoramic views of Rocky Mountain Front Little Belts & Big Belts
- Special events
- Wildlife viewing
- Remnants of Native Prairie
- Buffalo Jump and Drive lines
- View of Highwood Mountains and Square Butte
